Bus strike strands thousands in Metro

By [Name]

Thousands of commuters were stranded in the Washington, D.C., area today as a bus strike by the American Bus Association (ABA) took effect.

The Department of Transportation said it was unable to estimate the number of people who would be stranded.

The strike began at 5 a.m. today and was expected to last at least a week, the ABA said.

The ABA said it was not a union strike, but a strike by the industry.

Older adults, retirees are a growing fitness market

Expanding fitness and wellness programs for the growing population of older adults

By [Name] and [Name]

As the population of older adults grows, fitness and wellness programs are becoming increasingly important for this demographic. Many older adults are looking for ways to stay active and healthy, and fitness programs are providing them with the opportunity to do so.

There are many benefits to fitness and wellness programs for older adults. These programs can help improve physical health, mental health, and social health. They can also provide a sense of community and support for older adults.

Programs for older adults

There are many programs available for older adults, including group exercise classes, one-on-one personal training, and wellness programs. These programs can be found at community centers, senior centers, and fitness studios.
